Everyday Ethics: Making Wise Choices in a Complex World and the EthicsGame Family of simulations are designed for thoughtful adults who wish to be effective ethical decision makers. By digesting the traditions and theories that form the paths of intention, empathy and integration, you will develop the skills to become a master in your business, professional and personal life. Using four distinctive lenses, you will discover how to embrace life as a process with a series of practices leading to integration rather than an answer to be found through pursuing goals or following a set of rules. With integrity, grace and a dollop of frivolity - as well as a bit of practice - you will become comfortable and skilled at moving between the immanent world where all is profoundly connected and the transcendent world where ideas are forms that are first imagined and then brought into reality.
